

ZEI Academy in Comparative Regional Integration

5 - 16 September 2011

Call for applications

The Center for European Integration Studies (ZEI) at the University of Bonn organizes the “ZEI Academy in Comparative Regional Integration” for young academics from non-European regional groupings specializing in matters of regional integration, sponsored by the German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD) with funds of the German Federal Foreign Office.

- Two-week interdisciplinary program with lectures, workshops and panel discussions.
- Renowned European faculty of experts from academia, think tanks, institutions and politics.
- Excursions to the EU Institutions in Brussels and to the European Central Bank in Frankfurt.
- Learning in an international environment at the Center for European Integration Studies.

The main building of the University of Bonn, one of Germany's leading research universities, to which ZEI belongs.

Participants of the ZEI Academy of 2010 in the Paul-Henri Spaak building in Brussels with the Member of European Parliament, Axel Voss.

You are a young researcher or postgraduate with a background in European Studies, Regional Integration Studies, International Relations, Political Science, Economics or Law?

You are strongly interested in intensifying your knowledge of regional integration and share your own experience with young scholars from all over the world?

!!Apply for the “ZEI Academy in Comparative Regional Integration“!!

Deadline: 31 March 2011

For further information on the program structure, the admission process and scholarship opportunities, please look at:

<http://www.zei.de/summeracademy/summer2011.html>